Introducing Hami Association

Hami Association was established in 2001, with the aim of developing educational and cultural environment in deprived areas. It was registered in the Ministry of Interior with the number 13564. One year later, and in 2002, the activities of this Association resulted in constructing the first school of Hami Association in a village in Baneh city of Kordestan province. After construction of 5 schools, building and equipping libraries in rural and deprived areas was also in Hami's agenda, to help spread the culture of studying. Furthermore, since 2012, because of the importance of education in human growth and development, Hami Association has added children empowerment to its list of activities and focused on empowering principals, teachers and students and reached tangible and fruitful results, to the extent that today Hami Association has changed from a small community into an organized institution and has expanded its activities with help of its volunteers and tasked staffs. These forces have assisted the Association through years with their charitable efforts and have put time and efforts in providing opportunities to raise awareness and knowledge among children of Iran.

Hami schools

Many children and adolescents in deprived areas of Iran do not have access to basic educational facilities and live in inappropriate conditions; from studying in mud and clay schools, capers and gazebos to holding classes under the shade of trees, walls or even in the houses of the villagers. Naturally, in most cases, these spaces do not have basic facilities such as building strength, light or proper ventilation.

Believing in the fact that education is the right of all children, Hami Association searches and finds forgotten villages in the most remote and deprived areas of Iran. After carrying out statistical and field studies, a suitable place for constructing schools is identified and construction work begins afterwards. Following these measures, the first Hami school was built in 2002 in the village of Najneh Alia in Baneh city of Kordestan province. Afterwards, schools were built and equipped in the provinces of Sistan and Baluchistan, Lorestan, Ilam, East Azerbaijan, Golestan, Mazandaran and Hormozgan provinces with the support of sponsors.

Supporting schools

Hami stays with the School is not just a formal place to provide one-sided education, it is also an environment for learning and nurturing talents that would help social upbringing of students.

School should be a home where you can grow and reach a creative mindset; a warm and safe gathering that promises a bright future.

Hami Association considers continuous support of schools as its responsibility. Hence, the optimal use of educational spaces, meeting the educational needs of students, monitoring the quality of education and paying attention to their health and sports are among Hami's supportive activities. In line with these activities, measures such as periodic visits to schools and continuous communication with school officials and education departments and parents' and school teachers' association are carried out.

Every year, on the occasion of schools opening, and with the support of thousands of supporters, Hami Association sends stationery gift packages to all students in the covered areas to convey its message to the children of the most remote villages in Iran: "We will not forget you."

Supporting Hami schools also includes sending equipment as well as other measures as the following:

- * Equipping school libraries
- * Dispatching sports and laboratory equipments
- * Dispatching water cooler dispensers
- * Dispatching tablets
- * Video projectors
- * Dispatching computers
- * Educational aids
- * Textbooks
- * Funding transportation services for students, especially female students

Hami Libraries

Children find themselves through characters of books, follow their dreams in the world of stories and give life to their imaginations.

Unfortunately, having access to extracurricular books in many villages in deprived areas of Iran, is like a dream for children and teenagers.

Since 2009, Hami Association added building and equipping rural libraries to the list of its activities in order to create cultural bases for children so that they can expand their world and get familiarized with different cultures and ethnicities, and in general providing an opportunity for children to be able to express themselves and discover their talents.

Backpack on the way

Hami book backpacks

Children can read even in the most remote areas...

Many villages in Iran are deprived of having access to books due to small population, population density and long distance from cities. Hami Association could successfully develop the culture of reading books in these areas through implementing book backpack project.

What is a book backpack?

A backpack full of around 100 books that is placed in a public place such as a school, mosque, health center, village hall, etc. for the use of the villagers.

After one to two months, this backpack is exchanged with the backpacks in neighboring villages so that children from other areas can also use it. In this way, children will have around 1000 books to read throughout the year. 80% of the books in each backpack are specifically for to the age group of children and adolescents, and 20% are for adults with topics on skills training, education and health.

Education

Education guide children through path to better future.

During the visit to the schools, Hami Association encountered one of the most important problems in education in deprived areas: the weakness in the quality of education, this issue was rooted in many issues, including the lack of trained trainers and students' bilingualism, which led to weakness in understanding lessons in Persian language. Therefore, Hami Association was determined to step into the field of education.

In line with achieving educational justice and based on field surveys, Hami Association has organized numerous workshops for students, teachers and principals since 2012, such as workshops held in Dashtiari district in Chabahar, and in the city of Gosht in Saravan county in Sistan and Baluchistan province. Hami's training is held at elementary and high schools as workshops for the following groups:

- school principals
- teachers
- students

How Hami locate its projects?

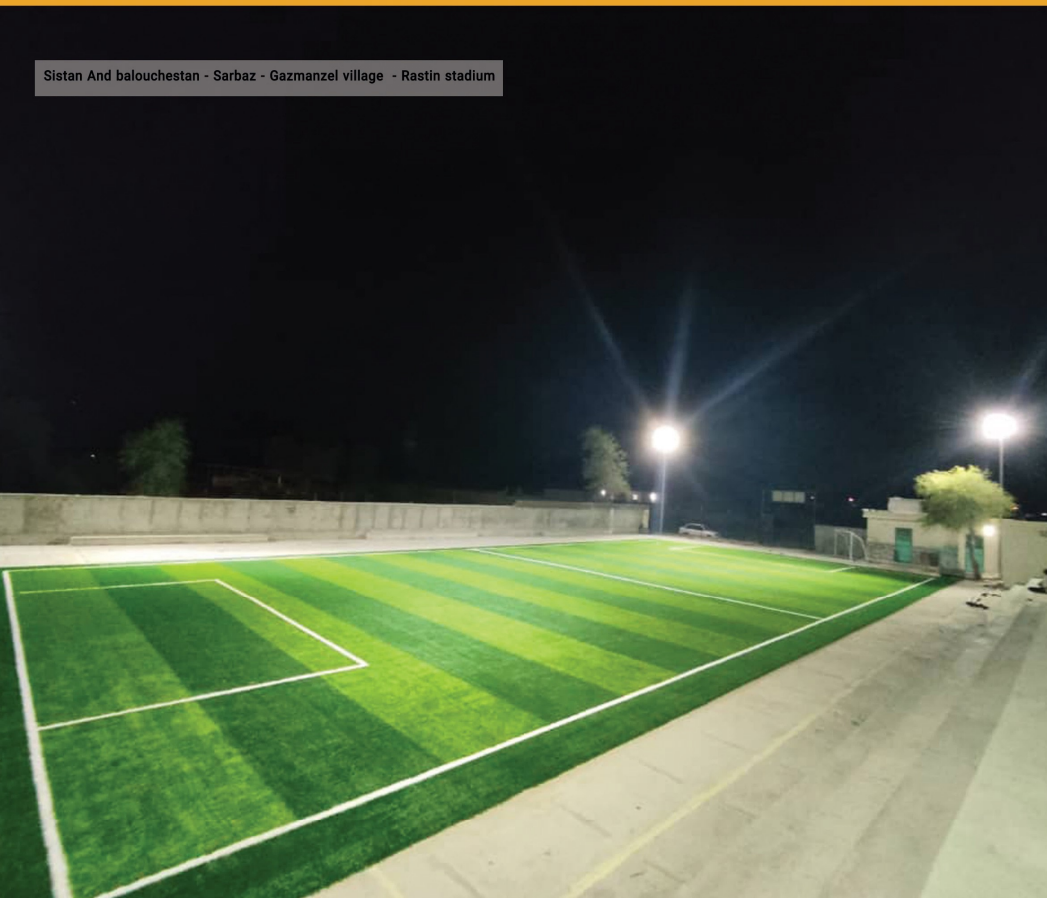

Since the beginning, Hami Association has been committed to its supporters. Hami has always been choosing the location of its projects for constructing educational centers and equipping them after precise survey so that the best and most effective situation could be provided for children of Iran to study. The extent and severity of deprivation in deprived areas of Iran, numerous requests from local communities and limited financial resources are among issues that have made Hami Association to carefully choose locations based on expertise.

Through this process, before selecting each project, requests are prioritized based on effectiveness indicators, through field studies and reviewing quantitative data. A part of location indicators by Research Group of Hami Association are as follows:

- Village population and student related statistics
- Level of local community participation
- Existing situation in each village, for instance level of deprivation, centrality, job creation and immigration, etc.

Hami Association is proud to announce that its schools and libraries are providing educational and cultural services with maximum capacity.
